

Contractor Is Selected for Sea Barrier Recharge Wells

Hood Corporation of Whittier has been designated contractor for the installation of 12 recharge wells as a part of the west basin sea barrier project to halt intrusion of sea water into fresh water wells. Supervisor Burton W. Chace disclosed today.

The company filed a $296,692.62 bid with flood control district chief engineer M. E. Salisbury May 31.

In making the award, the board of supervisors instructed Salisbury to prepare a contract for execution by the Hood firm and signature by the board chairman after approval by the county counsel, Chace said.

Hood currently holds a contract for construction of a 5.9-mile supply pipeline for the barrier which is designed to prevent further salt water intrusion into fresh supplies along the west coastline of the county.

Site of the installation of the 12 recharge wells will be in Prospect Avenue between Spencer Street and Torrance Boulevard in Redondo Beach.

About seven months will be required to complete this phase of the overall project, Chace said.

Plans call for the ultimate creation of a barrier running 11 miles from Playa del Rey to the Palos Verdes Hills, he added.

Harbor College Registration For Summer Ends Friday

Final registration dates for Harbor College summer session were announced today by Kenneth R. Williams, dean of the summer session.

Registration will take place on the Wilmington campus Thursday and Friday, from 8 a.m. till 2 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m.

A record enrollment is anticipated by Williams, based on a twenty per cent increase in the number of students signing up at the first registration period.

Unlike the regular session, no transcripts, permits, entrance tests or residence requirements are necessary to register. Registration is open to all high school graduates and persons over 18 years of age.

"There are certain courses that we think should be of benefit to special groups," Williams pointed out. "First, the high school graduate should find this to be a good introduction to college academic life, whether he intends to continue at Harbor or go to some other institution."

"Teachers as well should find certain courses of benefit to them. We are offering arithmetic for elementary teachers and music for classroom teachers." The music course is being offered for the first time, as is a course in elementary Spanish making use of the facilities of the college language laboratory.

All divisions of the college are offering a total of 120 different courses. The college will be in operation from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and the session will last from July 1 to Aug. 9. This schedule leaves a five-week vacation period between the end of summer school and the opening of the Fall semester. Further information can be obtained at Harbor College or by phoning TE 4-8581.

Teenagers Become Critics of Books at Carson Library

"I enjoyed this book very much more than I would have if I didn't know someone who fits the main character exactly."

"I really enjoyed reading this one. It reminded me of a girl I know. I would recommend this book for all teenage girls."

The plot is excellent. There are two daughters in the story and one seems to have the hobby of collecting all the boys she meets. She soon learns this is not the best thing she could do."

Evaluations Key
The book that inspired the above comments by members of the Book Fare Club at the Carson library, 22102 So. Main St., is "The Beau Collector," by Pauline H. Coleman.

Reading and evaluating teen-age books, giving honest opinions about each one read, is the responsibility of each Book Fare Club member.

The Book Fare program is a special service offered by the county library to young readers of the junior high school age and grade level in most of the 91 libraries in the county library system. Its purpose is to stimulate appreciation and understanding of literature in readers of that group.

Members deposit their written comments in a "Fair Exchange" box kept on the librarian's desk and a record of their reading is made on special forms provided by the library. In making their individual reading selections they have the benefit of booklists prepared every three months under the sup-

The lists include outstanding children's services, including new titles in the junior high and young adult book collections and frequently some titles from the adult collection.

Make Bee-Line for Box
James Buckley, the Carson librarian, said young teenagers at his library make a "bee-line" for the "Fair Exchange" box as soon as they enter the building and that the books the club members praise are the books they are most anxious to read.

Comments on the "Fair Exchange" box as soon as they enter the building and that the books the club members praise are the books they are most anxious to read.

Comments on "The Beau Collector," he said, built up quite a waiting list among the girls and placed author revision of the County L. Coleman high on their list of favorite authors.

The Carson Club, which is seeking new members, as many as possible, will hold a recruitment meeting Thursday, June 27, at 2 p.m., in the periodicals room at the library. All young teenagers in the area are invited. The program will feature author Eleanor Cameron, who will discuss "The Art of Story-Writing," telling how her varied inspirations come to her and how the "inspiration" grows from idea to full-length book.
